West Africa has its Agri-Inputs Strategy

The strategy is the first of its kind as it addresses crop seeds, fertilizers, pesticides, feed concentrates for livestock, animal genetic material for priority crops, livestock, and aquaculture.

COVID-19 Disrupting Ag Research

The food system in West and Central Africa (WCA) is already facing the brunt of COVID-19. Timelines for the release of critical innovations have been affected.

Read more
Hybrid Millet Varieties to Boost Production

In Burkina Faso, a team of breeders from INERA, in partnership with ICRISAT and other National Agricultural Research Systems (NARS), has developed high-yielding hybrid millet varieties.

Read more

CORAF Reinforces the Gender Capacities of Partners

The training's overall objective was to facilitate the effective integration of gender and social dimensions in the activities of the Partnership for Agricultural Research, Education, and Development (PAIRED).

Read more

What's the Impact of COVID-19 on Food and Nutrition Security in WCA

The COVID-19 pandemic continues to spread in West and Central Africa, a region already known for its pervasive food and nutrition security challenges. But what is the impact of COVID-19 on food and nutrition?

Read more

Bright Future for Plant Breeding in West Africa

The West Africa Centre for Crop Improvement (WACCI) trains plant breeders in Africa to improve African crops in local environments for farmers in Africa. Many of the graduates are already advancing plant breeding in their countries.

Read more

With Thanks to Contributors

Editors:
David Akana
Fidélia Bohissou

Editorial Advisers:
Dr. Abdou Tenkouano
Dr. Abdulai Jalloh

Design:
Jimmy Mandabrandja

PAIRED | WAAPP | MITA | WebTV | FRUIT FLIES

© CORAF 2020 - All right reserved.  Unsubscribe here